Born For This

1 Peter 3:8 - 12

March 19, 2017 || Gary Gaddini

1. Why does Peter keep reminding us to remember who we are as Christians?

2. Families behave differently. Read verse 8. Peter gives us a list of spiritual priorities: Be... like-minded, sympathetic, loving to one another, compassionate, and humble. What is the inherent blessing in the family for each of these spiritual priorities?

3. Families fight differently. Read verse 9. What does it mean to say, "We don't react, we respond!" What does our Heavenly Father promise that allows us to fight differently than the world fights?

4. Families speak differently. Read verse 10. If you were to actually do a word audit, what is at your core?

5. Families act differently. Read verse 11. What challenges you most about God's calling to seek peace and pursue it?

6. Read verse 12. What changes your thinking and your actions when you consider our Heavenly Father is watching all that takes place?

7. How do we know we have what it takes to think and act differently as the family of God?

8. How can your community group help you think and act more like a member of the family of God?

When Jesus says, "No"

Mark 5:1 - 20

March 19, 2017 || Dominic Rivera

1. What stands out to you most from this passage? Why?
2. In telling the healed man no, Jesus sent the man to share what God had done in him and how God is at work in the world. Describe a situation in which God led you to step out of your comfort zone and speak with someone about how He is at work in you.
3. What frightens you the most about talking with someone about God?
4. Who are the people that God has put in your sphere of influence (i.e. people with whom you regularly cross paths, see/speak with, etc.)?
5. The man was bound (physically and spiritually), and outcast (physically and spiritually). He was set free and welcome by Jesus. Who are those in your sphere of influence that need the freedom and welcome of Jesus?
6. Take a few minutes to pray for another and those not-yet-Christians with whom God has given you influence.
