James 5:19-20

1. Review the major themes in the Letter of James. Which themes in James have been the most practical for you in your life right now?
2. What are the things that “pull at your own heart” when you think about the phrase “prone to wander?”
3. How do you tend the soil of your heart so your growth won’t be shallow or crowded out?
4. What thoughts and feelings do you have about James’ teaching that it is our responsibility to bring back those who wander? What has been your experience with helping restore a person?
5. What instruction does Paul give us about restoration in Galatians 6: 1-2?
 - A. Why is ignoring or harsh rebuking both ugly alternatives to gently restoring?
 - B. What does humility, gentleness, and carrying one another’s burdens look like in the restoration process?

6. What does James tell us that should motivate us to engage in the restoration process?

7. Mark ends our series on James with the challenge from James to be single minded. “Am I really all about one thing? Is my relationship with God at the center (core) of all that do and all that I’m pursuing in my life? Or has that single-mindedness become diluted?”

8. How can we hold one another up to be single minded and not become diluted in our future?
